20th Anniversary Kit ATSF Peaked Roof Cabooses

In 1949, the Santa Fe's Topeka Shop built two groups of new all-steel riveted cabooses with a peaked roof, 100 with a Duryea under frame in the 2201 series and 100 with a non-Duryea underframe in the 500 series. They came with new metal running boards: the majority with Morton and a lesser number with Apex. The cars violated the long-standing practice of radial roofs on ATSF cabooses and made these cars distinctive on the system. The cupola was also the full width of the car, unlike that on the radial roof predecessors.

The use of a Duryea underframe on only one block resulted from the company's desire to test the two concepts. Other than the under frame, the only difference in outward appearance was a splice plate on the car side under the cupola on the 500 series.

The cars would have some changes to appearance in only a few years. Highball signals were added almost immediately. Within a few years batteries were added for the radio communications. An entry was cut in one side and a louvered door added for the battery box.

The cars received the ATSF Mineral Brown paint. White lettering was used.

The kits are vacuum cast in gray urethane. Both Morton and Apex etched stainless steel roofwalks have been developed for these cars. Kits include all detailing parts (except trucks and couplers), proprietary decals, screens and window material and a proprietary roofwalk. A casting allows addition of the battery box door. Full instructions and a Prototype Data Sheet are included.
