ATSF 36' Ice Car and "Hollywood" Way Car

The Santa Fe, perhaps more than any other railroad, created new equipment from obsolete rolling stock. Two of the best examples of this art were the Ie-X ice car and "Hollywood" way car rebuilt from former Bx-5 and Bx-14 36' wood boxcars with massive side sills. The Bx-5 had indented Murphy ends and the Bx-14 indented Dreadnaught ends; these remained to identify both sources.

Beginning in 1940, the ATSF created 100 or more way cars (sometimes called War Emergency Cabooses) from these short boxcars. Many "Hollywood" cars included back to back roof mounted benches in lieu of a cupola. They served from Kansas to Texas and west to California and lasted into the late '50s.

After the war, the ATSF constructed 300 ice cars from the same old equipment. The ice cars received former USRA reefer doors and sawdust insulation. The 11500-999 series ice cars, built beginning in late 1945 in La Junta, served until 1966 moving ice from company plants to locations with insufficient capacity, to seasonal docks without ice production, to work trains and to company facilities where ice was not available.

These Sunshine Limited Edition kits are available for one year. They use vacuum formed gray urethane castings. Thin clear acrylic and nylon mesh are provided to simulate the windows and screens on the way car. Proprietary decals are included, along with chalkmarks. All parts except trucks and couplers are supplied. A Prototype Data Sheet is included. The extensive instructions contain plentiful photographs.
